Forecast For Northwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 11 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Remaining wet and windy, with significant gales.

Today:
Widespread rain and windy to start. Conditions gradually improve when blustery showers and brighter conditions quickly supersede the rain, however, these occasionally heavy and possibly wintry over hills. Winds remain strong with severe gales around coastlines and gales inland. Maximum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Tonight:
While a good chance for some drier spells the evening gusty showers continue, increasing and merging to rain as dawn approaches. A cooler night than of late, rather blustery throughout. Minimum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Friday:
Heavy showers during the morning and evening, but easing around the afternoon as some brighter skies develop. Chance of hail and wintry precipitation over hills. Strong winds and feeling cold. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Blustery showers and sunny spells on the weekend, with risk of hail. Winds remain strong, with gales along coasts Saturday, easing Sunday. Cloudy with rain later on Monday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.